Back to School Family

Let me just admit right up front: last year at this time I wrote a very similar article – not the exact same, but similar. (Yes, I'm admitting to plagiarizing myself!) But the same notions always hit me this time of year. Summer is so fondly anticipated...then it's gone! Then, sadly for many 6 years old and up, school is back in session. It's a bitter-sweet thing for me. I love summer, love my kids being out of school and home (for now), love the vacations and events of summer. However, I can't deny the desire to get back to a "normal" schedule. What does that entail for you? Back to school means...what? Back to routine; back to homework; back to normal office hours – maybe all the above. Let me encourage you: make it also mean back to consistent times of worship with the Lord and your church family.

In Mark 12:30 Jesus reminds us our devotion and love for God is to be with all our being – "...love the Lord your God with all your heart...soul...mind and with all your strength" (ESV). Jesus says we're to love God with all our time, effort and energy. It's easy to get distracted from our spiritual lives. It's easy to forget to spend time in God's word and to forget to devote some time to prayer. And it's easy to get in the habit of missing worship assemblies. One who truly commits to loving God with their all, however, will embrace every opportunity to spend time with Him and with His people. We all know there's no "have-to" command to assemble on every Sunday night and Wednesday night. But, the real question is: why wouldn't you?! Why not take advantage of each chance to be fed from God's word and to fellowship with your Christian family? I suppose you can say you don't "have to" be in worship services every time we assemble (although, truthfully, I'm not sure then what Heb 10:24-25 means...). Regardless, brothers and sister, let me strongly encourage you: make this time of back to school and back to schedules also mean back to deeper devotion to God and to His family – to your church family. You may not need to be here every single time; but, I need you here. You're my family.

In Him, Clint

WNS Hosts: Our Wednesday Night supper program will resume very soon and a signup sheet for hosts is on the family board.

Teen Devotional Hosts: These are usually held after evening service on the first Sunday of the month, but this is flexible. This gives the teens an opportunity to sing together, pray together, eat together, and build friendships...together.

Teen Hang-time Hosts: This is another opportunity for our teens to be together and strengthen their friendships. "Hang-time" is just that; hosts will organize a time and place and food and activity. These events are typically on a Friday or Saturday evening.

Lectureship Help: Signup sheets for volunteers to help in various areas will be showing up on the family board, such as kitchen help, registration, and children classroom help. Please take a moment to see where you can help.

Please see the family board and teen board for signup sheets.
